No One Thought to Address Him in English.

Schneider, you know, was held up until the immigration people had found his baggage. But Schneider said nothing, even though they put him in the detention pen with a lot of Slovaks and handful of Liverpool stowaways.

Schneider had arrived on the Majestic, and he was sad. He really objected inwardly to the loss of his things, because he said so afterward. But that was all subsequent to the fun he had unwittingly with the immigration inspectors.

It is a well-known fact that these immigration people speak more languages than you hear in two months on the entire East side. Only once have they been stumped, and that was when a Hottentot Bushman came along with a few labial gymnastics that set a guessing every man on the island.

While Schneider was moaning in the pen, Chief Clerk Lederhiger came along. Chancing to observe the melancholy appearance of the man, he turned toward him. Now it happened that Schneider, besides having a sort of Teutonic air, wore clothes of unmistakable German origin. So naturally Lederhiger addressed him in German.

"Sind Sie Deutscher?" he asked. Schneider humped up his shoulders, spread out his palms and shook his head.

"Funny," murmured the clerk to himself. "I would have sworn to it, too."

And Schneider stood with a curious look upon his face while the chief clerk went after the French interpreter. Presently Mr. Lederhiger returned with the French interpreter. Calmly and confidently the interpreter strode smiling toward Schneider, and when in range hurled out explosively:

"Etes-vous Francais?"

Again Schneider shrugged his shoulders and nodded negatively.

"Well, well," said the chief clerk. "I'll just get the Russian interpreter now. He'll fetch him, surely."

So pretty soon the Russian interpreter came along, easy and pop-sure of getting Schneider down to a fine point.

"Just you watch," said he, "I'll get him."

"Hi!" said he, walking up to the moody immigrant. "Zavarte Pa Ruski hay. Redden Sic Yiddish?"

Schneider moved his seat hastily to another part of the room, where he sat violently shaking his head. It was painfully evident that he didn't understand. It was also evident that he was beginning to become alarmed. By this time all the other interpreters had heard something was up, so they came streaming in by ones and twos and squads, and up the stairs and through the doorways, and one climbed over the gate. And all the while Schneider's alarm rose higher and he sat with a look of great apprehension upon his face.

"Just let me try him," said the Italian interpreter: "Ei—Sietta Italiano—si?"

Schneider bobbed his head negatively and protested with his hands. Then they surprised him and shot off a bombardment of polyglot questions calculated to confuse the senses of a polar bear, which at best is always calculated to keep cool.

"Habla suted Espanol?" cried the Spanish interpreter.

"Konne tolta Svensk?" roared the Scandinavian.

"Thiggin thu Gaeldaeidh?" piped a man that had a smattering of Gaelic.

"C'mvir fan flacken?" was the taffy of the Welsh inspector.

"Che pau murish po Ruski?" yelled the Polish interpreter. "Che pau Polish?"

By this time Schneider was backed up against the wall with his hands outstretched to ward off the horde.

"Maybe he's a Hottentot!" some one roared, and a red-faced man leaned over and screamed: "Ki bobbri Walli? Ki bobbri Walli?" But then some one cried out in English. "That ain't Hottentot, you mud-hen. That's Hindoo-stance!" Then Schneider began to yell, too.

"Hoy," he cried, "what is this, anyway—a lunatic asylum or what? Lemme out!"

"Good laws," said the inspectors. "he's an American!"

"That's what I am," said Schneider, "and I want to get out." And he got—

THE ENGLISH AND AMERICAN GOLD PRESS.

The English papers are severe in their criticism of the Bank of England's proposition to keep one-fifth of its reserve in silver. The Westminister Gazette says although the Governor's statement is meaningless so far as practice is concerned, it is to be deeply deplored that the bank has budged from its principles. "It is not dignified," the Gazette says, "for the 'old lady' of Threadneedle Street to flirt with the bimetallic fad."

The St. James Gazette discussing the subject of keeping a part of the bank's reserve in silver says:

"The scheme seems to be knocked on the head for the present; but the reception of even this feeble announcement in the city will have an effect anything but favorable to the bimetallists. A substantial element of indignation arises at the feeling that the government and the bank have been doing a little diplomacy at our expense and for the advantage of Americans. The United States has done nothing to make such a risky politeness to the silver men on our part popular in this country."

The Globe and other papers condemn the scheme and say it is perilous to subject the monetary system of Great Britain to foreign influence through the government.

The London papers are more candid and outspoken than the auxiliaries and agents of the gold trust in the United States. Across the water the press admits that it would be to the advantage of Americans to have England assist in establishing bimetallism. Here the gold press insists that it would be ruinous to our interests to remonetize silver, of which we are the greatest producers. The English papers admit the fact that Americans would profit by restoring silver; here the gold papers insist that the free coinage of silver would be injurious to our interests.

The English papers protest against subjecting their monetary system to foreign influence by doing aught to restore silver. In the United States the gold press insist on making the United States a financial dependency of European money kings and villify and misrepresent those who advocate an American financial policy. The English advocates of gold monometallism know that bimetallism would be beneficial to American interests and detrimental to the interests of Great Britain and, therefore, oppose it; the American gold press is also cognizant of these facts, but insists on maintaining a foreign financial policy in the United States presumably because it is paid for doing so.

PROSPEROUS MEXICO.

Some weeks ago, when there was a decided decline in the price of silver, the gold standard people gloated over the report that Mexico would become bankrupt and would be compelled by circumstances to adopt the gold standard. Now President Diaz, in his message to Congress, pictures the Republic as being quite prosperous. He says the Postoffice and Telegraph Departments, both of which are conducted by the Government, show a remarkable increase in business. Referring to the decline in the price of silver as affecting the finances of Mexico, the message states that while the present fiscal year does not begin under as good auspices as the previous one there is not for the present any serious reason for alarm. The nation will be able to pass through the difficult period confronting it with the same serenity which it displayed a few years ago when like causes produced alarm. The President assured Congress that there was every reason for congratulation on the state of the country, which steadily grows richer, while the revenue of the Government is continually increasing. The recent decline in silver, which, if continued, might occasion serious consequences, only encourages national exportation and manufactures. While the temporary nature of the decline, according to the reports received by the Executive, permits the indulgence of the hope that the situation will soon clear up. In any event the national treasury is prepared to meet it.

The low price of silver is, of course, seriously felt in Mexico, where silver is produced for export, but, nevertheless, the country is prosperous and the exports are greater than heretofore. Home manufactures have been stimulated by the high prices of foreign goods, and the country steadily grows richer and the revenue of the Government is constantly increasing.

The fact that foreign countries do not accept Mexican silver at its nominal value stimulates home production and industries and virtually excludes foreign goods from the home market.

The people are so wrought up in many of the Southern towns over the yellow fever scare that unlawful acts are being committed. The tracks of the Alabama and Vicksburg road were torn up west of Jackson, Miss., and Governor McLaurin ordered out the Capital Light Guard to protect the property of the railroads. Trestles have been burned and other means resorted to in the belief that travel could be stopped from coming in or going through the city.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Since Friday's reports, the number of cases of yellow jack at Edwards City, Miss., have been increased to thirty-nine, according to official reports of physicians. The spread of the disease is said to be remarkable and generally distributed throughout the town. Several other cases of sickness are reported, but the character has not been determined upon by the physicians. It is believed, however, that within twenty-four hours the number of cases will be swelled to fifty.

At Meridian all trains were stopped by force, but were finally permitted to pass through without stop. The trains only moved the trains at four miles an hour, while the road had been ordered to run trains through the city at a speed of twenty miles an hour, and in one instance a passenger train stopped in the heart of the city. Indignation is at fever heat and the people say that if necessary to keep the quarantine they will burn every bridge between Jackson and Vicksburg.

Four new cases were reported at New Orleans. The Board of Health has ordered all meetings or gatherings, social, fraternal or otherwise, be discontinued for the time being.

At Mobile eleven new cases have been reported in twenty-four hours.

In the smaller towns adjacent to the infected districts the people are panic stricken and fleeing, although there is less danger in these towns than in the larger places and cities.

THE JONAH OF THE KORAN.

Moslem Version of the Adventure of the Israelitish Prophet.

The Koran tells us that "Yunus (Jonas) was of those 'who were sent,' when he fled into the loaded ship, and they cast lots among themselves, and he was condemned, and the fish swallowed him, for he was worthy of blame!"—Chapter xxxvii.

The Moslems have their ancient scriptures giving a history of the world from Adam down through their great prophet, Ibrahim (Abraham).

According to the Moslem scriptures Jonas, a prophet of the children of Israel, was sent to a city of the territory of Moussoul, which embraced Antioch and several other towns, all given to idolatry. The people refused to believe, and Allah threatened a chastisement should they not repent. On the day appointed Jonas departed, and Allah sent a red cloud filled with fire, which hovered over the city in the night. The king and the people gathered together. The king said: "Sack for Jonas, that we may believe Allah, for what he has told us is the truth."

When Jonas heard that they sought him he said in his anger: "Why do they not believe this day?" So he would not return.

The king caused all the people to go forth out of their city with their quadrupeds and birds. There they covered themselves with dust, and the king said: "Oh, Lord, though Jonas, thy prophet, be gone, we lose not confidence in thee. We believe on thee, Allah, and thy prophet." The prayers and sobs of the multitude made the angels in Heaven weep, and Allah pardoned the city.

But Jonas was not there. He had embarked on a passing vessel and was far out at sea. Allah caused a big fish to stop the vessel. The crew prayed and wept and prepared for death. Then Jonas knew that he had committed a sin and he said to the sailors: "It is I whom the fish desires; cast me to it." When they knew he was a prophet of Allah they refused to do it, but they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonas. Then he cast himself into the sea and was swallowed by the fish. "This species of fish," says the Koran, "has a raised back like the roof a house, and to this day is held sacred from pursuit." The Greek word both in Matthew and the Septuagint is ketos, properly translated "whale," but there are only two or three small species of cetaceans in the Mediterranean sea. The description in the Koran answers to a porpoise.

After 40 days Jonas was inspired with the thought of prayer. Allah sent an angel to lead the fish ashore at the point where Jonas had embarked. Then he was cast up, as weak as a newborn child. Allah inspired a doe to come and give him milk. The sun scorched his body and Allah inspired a gourd to spring up around a dry trunk and put forth leaves, which gave shade to Jonas. For 40 days was he suckled by the doe, until he was able to rise and pray.

At last the gourd withered and Jonas was aggrieved. Then Allah reproved him for not being grieved for the many thousands of the people he had deserted.

Jonas was sent anew to the now repentant people. He met a shepherd who told him they were seeking him. He bade the shepherd go and tell them he was here. "Where shalt thou be?" said the shepherd. "In this mountain," answered Jonas. "Who will show me the road to thee?" said the shepherd. "This she goat," answered Jonas. "Who will bear witness that I have seen thee?" said the shepherd. "Thy dog," answered Jonas. Then the shepherd departed and Jonas entered the mountain.

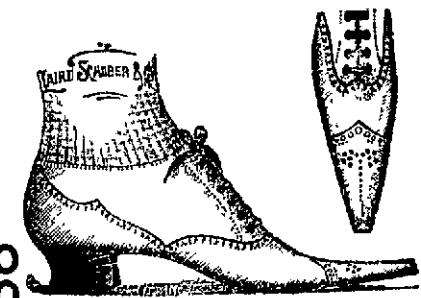

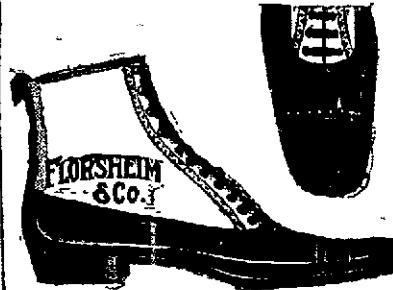

The shepherd went and told the king and people and they came forth to find Jonas. "Bear witness for me," said the shepherd to his dog, "as the prophet commanded." The dog responded distinctly, saying: "Jonas, son of Matai, prophet of Allah, was here." Then the shepherd said to the goat: "Be our guide," and she led them to Jonas, who was found deep in prayer. He rose and went with them to the city and there remained until his death.—Washington Times.

Postmaster-General Gray has become convinced of both the wisdom and utility of establishing postal savings banks throughout the United States and will make a recommendation to that effect to Congress. No details have been decided upon. He is expected to treat of the subject in his annual report.

RENO VS. SACRAMENTO.

The Wheelmen Decide to Contest Honors With the Coast Champions. The Reno Wheelmen held a meeting last evening and accepted the proposition of riding the Sacramento team a fifty-mile relay race on October 10th.

The Sacramento Club has the Coast record, never having been defeated, and this fact makes assurance doubly sure that the race will be a scorcher from start to finish. The Sacramento boys are proud of their laurels and will strive to hold them, while the Renos will strive fully as hard to win them.

An effort will be made to secure a reduced round-trip rate from Sacramento and return, not only for the team but for all that care to take advantage of it, and it is believed that many Sacramentans as well as people from Auburn, Grass Valley, Nevada City, Colfax and Truckee and other towns along the line will take advantage of the rate.

If a reduced rate can be procured it is estimated that fully 300 wheelmen from California will cross the mountains to view the race, and doubtless many others will come over for the sake of the trip and novelty of the change. Other features will probably be introduced on the day of the race, such as tandem racing, fancy riding, etc., as attractions.

The Reno Wheelmen also appointed a Racing Board last evening to take charge of events of this character and especially the program for this particular event.

It was positively decided that none but actual resident members of the Reno Wheelmen should be entered in the local team and all reports to the contrary are without authority or foundation.

Every effort will be made to make the prospective race the greatest event of the kind ever held on the coast and it is believed that the fifty-mile world's relay record will be smashed.

MILES OF TRACK.

The Number the Southern Pacific is Assessed for in Nevada.

It may be of interest to many to know how many miles of railroad track the Southern Pacific Company is assessed for in the State of Nevada. With this in view the following figures have been obtained and when considered in the aggregate it represents an immense assessed valuation and a large revenue to the State:

COUNTY.	MILES.
Wasco.....	53.03
Humboldt.....	141.72
Lyon.....	11.38
Lander.....	19.15
Churchill.....	28.67
Eureka.....	35.37
Elko.....	148.50

Total..... 448.02

From this table it will be noted that the Southern Pacific Company pays taxes on its track in seven counties of the State. In addition to this it pays to each county a proportionate tax on its rolling stock, also on lands, buildings, etc., the lands in some instances extending into other counties. Approximately the company is assessed for $6,000,000 valuation or nearly one-fourth of the amount of taxable property in the State, consequently it pays nearly one-fourth of the revenue for maintaining the State and county governments. While it is admitted that the company should pay its just proportion of tax and that the figures given do not represent any greater tax and perhaps not as much comparatively as that imposed upon the farmer, householder, merchant or tradesman, yet it should receive credit at least for what it does do and if one stops to consider for a moment, it is apparent that without this source of revenue several of the counties could not exist and a State government for Nevada would be out of the question.

THE BISMARCK SWAMP ON FIRE.

The dismal swamp of Virginia and North Carolina is on fire from one end to the other, the result of unprecedented drought and excessively hot weather. No one inhabits the swamp and no effort is being made to check the flames.

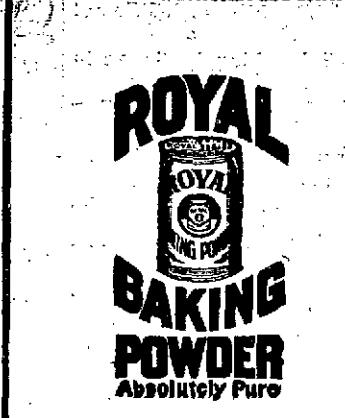

Bear, widgeon, deer and reptiles fled before the flames and it is said that their cries as they were cremated struck terror to the hearts of railroad passengers passing through sections of the swamp. The passengers and crew on an incoming train at Norfolk, Virginia were nearly stifled with the smoke. They reported columns of fire from thirty to fifty feet in height extend for miles.

THE WORLD'S RECORD.

M. Cording known as the "Fast Flying Dutchman," smashed the world's twenty-four hour bicycle record at London on Thursday. He rode 616 miles and 340 yards in the twenty-four hours or an average of slightly below 26 miles an hour. The feat was accomplished on a wooden track at the Crystal Palace.

CATTLE FEVER.

A Cure for the Disease Believed to Have Been Found.

A dispatch from Denver says: After many months of effort and repeated experiments a cure for cattle fever has been found. Dr. V. A. Norgard of this city is the discoverer. Solution after solution was tried by him in the effort to find one that would be effectual and cheap, as well as immediate in its results. The plan is to exterminate the insect known as the "tick," which abounds on fever stricken cattle, and through the means of which the disease is communicated.

To do this cattle are forced to swim through a solution in a vat. What the solution is not known at the present time, but crude petroleum is used.

When the successful experiment was tried twenty-seven head of very "ticky" cattle were forced to swim through the solution, and it was noticed that while standing on the drip board there was almost a perfect rain of ticks falling off the cattle. They were put into a special pen, and the next day, just seventeen hours after the experiment was tried, a rigid examination was made and the examiners failed to find a single live tick in the whole herd. There was no damage done the eyes or skin of the cattle dipped, and not a single bad effect resulted.

If the new remedy proves to do all it is claimed it can do, the cattle market will experience something of a revolution, and about 500,000 head of cattle will be shipped north each year, during the now prohibited season, which extends from February 15th to November 15th.

The "fever line," from beyond the limits of which no cattle can be shipped to the north during the prohibited period as it now stands, stretches from coast to ocean and Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Virginia, part of West Virginia and Louisiana form the district affected.

State Veterinarian Greswell is very much pleased with the results of Dr. Vorgaard's experiments, and says without doubt the long-sought remedy has been found.

A meeting of all the States and Territories that handle cattle has been called to meet in Fort Worth on September 27th, and at this meeting it is expected the new scheme of dipping cattle will be shown, and should it prove a success many of the States will be ready to so modify their laws that the cattle of the South can enter the Northern markets.
